Beef School will be held at the Carroll County Ag Center, 900 Newnan Road, Carrollton, GA. We have excellent instructors and speakers lined up who will cover all the basics of owning, raising and showing a steer or heifer. Some of the topics include making beds, rinsing, hair care & washing; equipment care, what to take to a show, fitting and clipping, judging, showmanship, cattle selection, team events and graduation!

Back by popular demand, Teen Leaders to Beef School! We are inviting any beef exhibitors who feel they know the basics, but still want to work on their fitting, clipping, showmanship skills and would like to work with Beef School participants, to apply as a Teen Leader. Teen Leaders will assist instructors and leaders in everyday activities but also have the opportunity to be involved with classes that will provide knowledge for all those at the beginning level to the most advanced. Teen Leaders who are selected to attend Beef School can register for $100 which includes all meals, lodging and registration fee. Teen Leaders are not allowed to bring a calf.

Agents, teachers or other adults who wish to attend Beef School can register for $100 which includes all meals, lodging and registration fees. A limited number of agents and teachers may be asked to assist with Beef School and their fees may be paid by the school (depending on number of participants and budget availability.) Teachers / agents interested in serving as a leader at Beef School need to submit an Adult Leader application with payment for Beef School.

Please be sure that both the student and calf is properly prepared to attend Beef School. In order to avoid safety issues with students and calves, calves should be completely halter trained for the students to handle on their own. We have experienced problems in the past with 4-H and FFA members bringing inappropriate calves to Beef School. Green broke calves and inexperienced students make a very dangerous combination. This may result in problems for the instructors, disruption in the classes and danger and headache for all involved.

The Georgia Junior Livestock Program

"Youth learning through experience."

All applications must be signed by the County Agent or Ag Ed Teacher involved. All participants and Teen Leaders must sign, and therefore agree, to abide by the Beef School Code of Conduct and the rules of Beef School.

Please promote this activity in your county. We believe this school is just what we need to instill good ethics and sound management practices in the Youth Livestock Projects. Through excellent instruction we can empower these young people to properly care for and manage their own livestock. Thanks so much, in advance, for your support. Please let us know if we can answer any questions or be of assistance to you.
